Padre Pio's Spiritual Direction

“The stabs of pain and expansions of souls that alternate in the deepest part of your spirit come from a love that pushes us away and then draws us back. Therefore be at peace, and calmly endure these alternations of diverse feelings in your spirit. They are due to your incomplete possession of the object of love and are causing the internal martyrdom that makes your soul suffer severely. Endure them so that you can say with the royal prophet, “Behold, it was for my welfare / that I had great bitterness” (Isaiah 38:17). Open up your soul to the eternal sun, and do not fear its burning, fiery rays. Open up your soul, I tell you, most beloved daughters of my heart, to this sun of infinite beauty—you who are longing so much for the cocoon to hatch so that the lovely butterfly can be released from its harsh, dark prison.”

(To the Campanile sisters, May 25, 1918)

Mom of Soon-to-Be-Saint Carlo Acutis: Son Offers ‘a Spirituality That Can Be Followed by Everybody’ ‘Already on the day of Carlo’s funeral, we began to see miracles ...’ (excerpts from the National Catholic Register)

Antonia Salzano Acutis, the mother of Blessed Carlo Acutis, spoke about the news that her son will soon be the first millennial saint. Antonia Acutis discusses the second miracle attributed to the holy teen, his witness and popularity, and his deep devotion to the Eucharist. The public is very interested in Carlo, surely, because he was a young millennial of our times. The problems of young people today are something deeply felt among everyone: believers and nonbelievers. The people are calling Carlo the “patron saint of the internet.”

“Carlo’s exhibit (The Eucharistic Miracles) has reached thousands of parishes in the whole world: in China, Japan, India, Africa, the United States, Brazil, Europe. It is something pretty extraordinary. In the end, this work of Carlo has really spread, and we have seen its fruits. We have seen conversions and, incredibly, even healings during the “Eucharistic Miracles” exhibit — healing from tumors: Incredible! In effect, when we speak about the Eucharist, we are talking about God among us. And Our Lord receives glory from this because he loves that we speak about the Eucharist. Maybe he has given us these signs to wake us up a little bit.

“His canonization will take place in Rome. The date will be communicated to us during the month of June. It could be this year or during the Jubilee of 2025. There are a few “hot” dates, which could be during the Jubilee of Adolescents/Youth, which will be in April 2025, or the Jubilee of Young People/Young Adults, which will be in July 2025. I don’t know yet.

“We know the second miracle attributed to Carlo’s intercession was of a Costa Rican woman named Valeria who was healed from a traumatic brain injury, after a cycling accident in Florence in 2022. During the medical commission, which is the most difficult phase, there are about 15 doctors who are making inquiries. There are various steps. Depending on the pathology (for the specific disease or injury which was healed), they need to find specialist doctors in that sector. And not just one doctor, but various experts in the same field. Then, they have to vote. Some doctors may vote against the conclusion (that it was a miracle). In Carlo’s case, the votes were unanimous that it was a miracle. Then there is the Theological Commission. After this, there is the Commission of Cardinals. And then there is the Pope. Obviously, he is the one who decides everything, because the Pope can also decide, “No. This won’t go forward.” That is why the enthusiasm is always great when the Pope signs. Everything is on hold, up until he signs.

“You know, every day we get news about possible miracles through Carlo’s intercession. We hear about healings with medical documentation from all over the world. We hear about favors, conversions, graces. The Church chooses one miracle for the beatification and one for the canonization. But there have been many, many others. In my opinion, some have been truly amazing. I can’t speak about them all. We hear about cases of leukemia being healed instantaneously without chemotherapy. The first miracles from Carlo happened at his funeral. There was a woman who had breast cancer. She had already done a histological exam, and they had told her that she had to start chemotherapy soon. She prayed to Carlo on the day of his funeral Mass, and the tumor disappeared instantaneously. So, already on the day of Carlo’s funeral, we began to see miracles.

“Carlo was 7 years old when he received his first Communion. He wrote in a notebook that day, “Being always united to Jesus. That is my life plan.” From that day on, he began to go to Mass every day, going to Eucharistic adoration every day, either before or after Mass.

You know that when the Church declares someone to be a saint, it is because they lived the Christian virtues. There are more than 200 virtues, but the principal virtues are seven: prudence, justice, faith, hope, charity, fortitude, temperance. Our virtues need to be strengthened, and through the Eucharist, Jesus helps to strengthen our will and fight against temptations. The Eucharist is really a medicine for our souls. It heals us from our wounds that we carry as a residue of original sin.

With the Eucharist, we are transfigured. There is nothing more supernatural in this earth than the Eucharist: It is Jesus among us. Jesus is really present. Carlo used to say when he was teaching catechism, “If there is a fire in a Church, who would take care to go and save Jesus — who is alive — from the tabernacle? We have to do this because he is a living presence. He is alive among us.” Carlo was a great proponent of Eucharistic adoration. Carlo used to say, “When we face the sun, we get a tan ... but when we stand before Jesus in the Eucharist we become saints.” Let’s remember that when Moses prayed on Mount Sinai to God (Exodus 34), his face became luminous. This happens to us, too. We don’t realize it, but the light of God envelopes us. It transforms us and purifies us.

In 2006, we had no Facebook or Twitter. But Carlo’s sayings were a form of tweets:

“Not self-love, but the glory of God.”

“Happiness is not looking at yourself but looking towards God.”

“Everybody is born as an original, but most die as photocopies.”

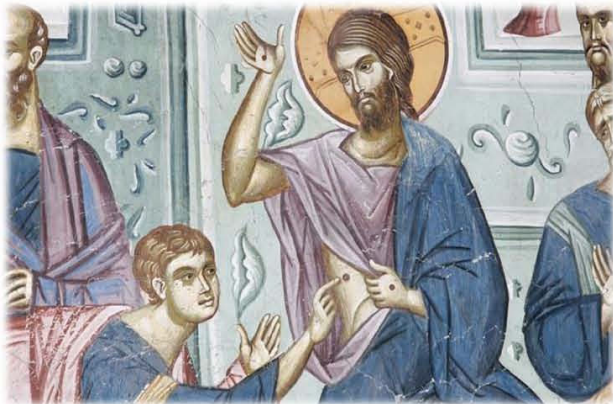

This was his way of catechizing, which is very relevant.

These sayings strike people more than the treatises of the mystics. Nobody reads these types of treatises anymore. Today, we need a catechesis which is more dynamic and more essential. God is extremely simple. The more we are complicated, the more we move farther away from God. The simpler we are, the closer we get to God.

Surely, Carlo was extremely simple in his spirituality. It was a spirituality that can be followed by everybody: the sacraments, Our Lady, the Holy Rosary, prayer, reading sacred Scripture, works of charity.
